Truck Overturns In Marshalls Creek

MORE THAN $4,000 damage resulted in a tractor-trailer accident in Marshalls Creek Saturday at 6 a.m. There were no injuries.

The tractor-trailer operated by Kerlin Albert Bashore, of Pottsville, RD 2, failed to stop for the stop sign at the intersection on Routes 209 and 402, smashed into three gas pumps, one oil stand, and then rolled over on its side.

State Police from Stroudsburg barracks said Bashore, who was traveling north on Route 402, went through the stop sign, across the

Race Riot Ends In South Carolina

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—Traditional Sunday tranquility returned to Florence in sharp contrast to Saturday night's riot by hundreds of stone-throwing Negroes.

"Everything is well in hand," Police Chief Melvin D. Adams said Sunday. "It's all over now."

But evidence of the riot was everywhere in the northeast Negro section of the city. One plate glass window was broken and at least four car windows were broken.

No serious injuries were reported by authorities. An unidentified 7-year-old girl was treated at her home for shock after the car in which she was riding was hit by stones.

Four persons were arrested, but only one remained in jail Sunday, Adams said. He identified Mrs. Esther Malloy, a Negro, whose arrest by a Negro policeman provoked the riot.

Adams said the riot "had nothing at all to do with racial difficulties. There were no racial issues involved."

The police chief said the riot started when policeman Harold Tisdale attempted to arrest Mrs. Malloy for fighting in a night-spot. "She started fighting Tisdale and everybody around just got riled up," Adams said.

Tisdale said he was attacked after placing Mrs. Malloy in a police car with two other officers. The attackers stole his cap and tore several buttons from his shirt.

The officers in the car radioed police headquarters for more help. A police car sent in to reinforce the officers radioed back to the police station that the situation appeared to be turning into a riot.

City police, deputy sheriffs, state highway patrolmen and firemen then grouped at the police station and moved toward the riot area. Many members of the crowd left.

Businesses in the area were ordered closed and everyone was ordered off the streets. Groups of Negroes lined one street, some shouting profanity at the officers. But they were finally ushered to the city limits and the mob dispersed.

Authorities worked into the night to clear the ruffie left by the riot.

City Editor Jimmy Howle of the Florence Morning News, who was on the scene, said that after the crowd scattered, "There was no place for 50 yards of an intersection where you could place your hand without touching broken glass" on the streets.

The crowd was variously estimated at 2,000 by Howle to 250 by Adams.

Area Man Is Killed By Train

A New Jersey Central train ran over a 56-year-old Weissport man killing him instantly Saturday at 7:02 p.m.

Lehigh State Police said that Arthur U. Schaab of Lehigh, either stumbled or crawled into the side of the moving train 90 feet east of the bridge crossing the Lehigh River, about one mile from his home.

Police added that Schaab was known as a habitual drinker and established that he had been drinking heavily prior to the accident.

A spokesman for the railroad said that the train, enroute to Jersey City, had left Jim Thorpe at 6:47 p.m. and passed the site of the accident at 7:02 p.m.

Schaab was taken to the Zimmerman Funeral Home, Lehigh, where William Weymeyer, Carbon County Coroner, pronounced him dead of a severe skull fracture.

The body was released to the Mayes Funeral Home, Weissport.

JFK Given Hopeful Report On Congo

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy got a hopeful report Sunday night on the Congo situation from United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

Kennedy interrupted a campaign to stir up voters in the congressional elections to fly from Buffalo to New York for the meeting. This represented an unexpected leg on a five-state campaign tour.

Stevenson met JFK at New York's International Airport, told reporters he was "more hopeful than I have been in the past that we may come to some settlement in the Congo."

The U.N. ambassador said that while the situation remains unsettled and no one can determine what Tshombe may do, "I am hopeful that something constructive is coming out of present negotiations."

Kennedy and Stevenson rode in a caravan from the airport to a downtown hotel. They chatted on the way and Stevenson said he expected they would talk briefly in Kennedy's hotel suite.

Stevenson said that as far as he is concerned there is no emergency regarding the Congo. The U.N. ambassador said that Kennedy was very interested in developments there and also in getting his reaction to conversations with Algeria's Premier Ahmed Ben Bella, who is scheduled to meet with the President Monday in Washington.

Stevenson said that he had had rather lengthy conversations with Ben Bella. The ambassador, however, declined to say what course these conversations took.

Stevenson said after his hotel conference with Kennedy that he had told the President that developments of the past few days "are positive and helpful and give us some hope of a solution of the problems in the Congo."

The U.N. ambassador indicated he expects Acting Secretary-General U Thant will make a formal announcement shortly on what has been done to bring secessionist Katanga back into line with the central Leopoldville government.

In response to questions Stevenson said that he had reviewed not only the Congo problem, but others existing in the United Nations, including the controversy over the Soviet-dominated Fidel Castro government in Cuba.

Asked if his report on Cuba were as optimistic as that he made on the Congo, Stevenson replied:

"On the whole, yes, I think we have a high degree of solidarity in the Western Hemisphere on the Cuban problem."

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger broke in to respond to another question to say that Kennedy had no plans on his brief visit to New York to see James B. Donovan, Democratic nominee for the Senate, who is attempting to negotiate the release of Cuban invasion prisoners.

Stevenson said he had not discussed the matter of the invasion with Kennedy because he knew nothing about it.

The U.N. ambassador was pressed by reporters for an answer to why Kennedy suddenly decided Sunday to fly to New York City at the windup of his campaign trip.

Called At Noon

Stevenson said White House aides had called him Saturday about a possible conference. He said he received another call shortly after noon Sunday announcing that the President was flying here.

Stevenson refused to be drawn out on his hint that U Thant may have a statement on the Congo situation. He said he thinks such a statement may be imminent but it would be unwise for him to forecast either its timing or its import.

2 Wounded Cubans Flown From Bahamas To Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two wounded Cuban militiamen flown here from a Bahamas island said Sunday their patrol boat was attacked and sunk by a larger vessel which then rescued them into British waters.

Identify Men

Immigration officials waited at Key West for another six men taken from tiny Cay Sal aboard a 95-foot Coast Guard patrol boat.

Edward Ahrens, district immigration director, said indications were the six had manned the boat which attacked the Cuban boat, then took Suarez and Cao to Cay Sal. Whereabouts of their attack boat was not known, Ahrens said.

Ahrens said the two militiamen told immigration officers they and two other military men were on patrol duty in an 18-foot boat Friday night, off Varadero Beach, near Havana.

At about 10 p.m., the men said, a much larger boat came close to them. Cao and Suarez were wounded, and the boat sank. The other two men were swimming to shore when last seen, Suarez said.

Suarez said he and Cao were picked up by the attack boat and "all together, we went to Cay Sal." Suarez said even though he was wounded, he remembered there were six men on the larger boat.

"Speaking for myself," Suarez said, "I ask for asylum and parole in the United States."

Ahrens said the two were scheduled for surgery Sunday night and that no further statements would be issued until Monday.

Suarez' story conflicted with one told Sunday in Havana by the Cuban Armed Forces Ministry.

The ministry announced a pirate attack upon a pleasure craft early Saturday off Cayo Blanco, 15 miles northwest of Cardenas, Matanzas Province.

Chest Funds Help Citizens Association

ONE OF the smallest allocations from Community Chest is and always has been to Pennsylvania Citizens Association, the dynamic lobbying, listening post and research organization servicing all Chest units in the state as well as other agencies.

This year's allocation to Pennsylvania Citizens Assn. is $100.

The experts in the staff of this group cover legislative activities like a blanket. It studies, analyzes and reports on all legislation dealing with health and welfare problems affecting all citizens of the Commonwealth. It recommends courses of action to agencies, Chest, etc., in dealing with good and bad legislation in an effort to support, or head-off enactments.

Further, the group asks for comments from Chests and agencies on legislative matters, state bureau policy actions or edicts.

Close consultation is maintained at all levels with emphasis on contracts with senators or assemblymen to achieve more beneficial legislation and thwart bad proposals.

Great work has been done by the Pennsylvania Citizens group in bringing about the revisions in ancient adoption laws to keep pace with the modern methods and practices so many other states have legislated in recent years.

Communists Insist On Berlin Treaty

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party asked the people of the world Sunday to insist that West Berlin be turned into a demilitarized, free city and that a German peace treaty be signed.

The suggestion was contained in the traditional list of slogans which the party publishes in connection with the anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution on Nov. 7.

103 Slogans

This time there are 103 slogans and they were spread across the front page of Sunday's Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

The Berlin slogan: "Peoples of all countries: Demand the conclusion of a German peace treaty and the turning of West Berlin into a free, demilitarized city."

Then followed the usual greetings to the countries of the world. Communist China led the list: "Fraternal greetings to the working people of the Chinese People's Republic, building socialism. Long live the eternal, unbreakable friendship and cooperation between the great peoples of the Soviet Union and China."

Next came Albania and then the countries of the Communist bloc—out of order—was next to last, followed by Yugoslavia.

The Cuban slogan: "Fraternal greetings to the heroic people of Cuba who have stepped on the path of building socialism, selflessly defending the freedom and independence of their country from the aggressive attempts of the American imperialists. Let friendship and cooperation between the Soviet and Cuban people develop and strengthen."

The Arab country of Yemen, now racked by revolution, was included for the first time. The slogan read: "Warm greetings to the people of the Yemeni Arab Republic, selflessly fighting for freedom and independence of their country."

Mentions Algeria

Newly independent Algeria got a mention: "Greetings to the brave people of Algeria. Let the friendship between the Soviet and Algerian people strengthen and develop."

The Soviet Union's allies during World War I—now antagonists in Berlin—were remembered with these words: "Long live friendship and cooperation between the peoples of Britain, the United States of America, France and the Soviet Union in the interests of a secure peace throughout the world."

On the home front, the slogans demanded that farmers produce more meat, milk, butter and eggs, while factory workers were told to improve the quality of their production.

Labor Party In Britain Faces Revolt

LONDON (AP)—Hugh Gaitskell leader of Britain's Labor party, faced an open revolt Sunday by powerful party veterans who insist that Britain should get into the European Common Market.

Disension among Laborites is nothing new. This time, however, the challenge to Gaitskell comes from a new quarter—the right-wing trade union leaders who previously have provided his surest support.

They believe Gaitskell's Common Market policy—that Britain should join only under strictest conditions—carries grave risks for both party and nation.

Ray Gunter, 53, a Welshman who is a member of Labor's National Executive, brought the anti-Gaitskell line into the open Saturday night.

Good Morning!

"You know, I wouldn't say anything about her unless it's good, and, oh boy, is this good!"

Anti-U. S. A. Poem Printed In Russian

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko, self-styled "angry young man" of the Soviet literary world, published Sunday an anti-American poem about last year's crushed Cuban invasion.

The poem, entitled "Cuban Mother," appeared in the Communist party organ Pravda and neatly fitted into the current Soviet propaganda campaign against alleged American threats to Cuba.

Yevtushenko's poem told a tearful tale of a Cuban mother whose husband was killed fighting with Fidel Castro's revolutionary forces against the Batista regime. Her son was killed fighting to repel last year's "Bay of Pigs" invasion. In despair, she lives in a tent on the beach near her son's grave. The poem quotes the mother as saying:

"The sea . . . from whence the murderers come,
"I know—that they may still come."

It concludes with the lines:

"Happy American mothers,
"Do you see this Cuban mother?"

Yevtushenko is now in Cuba working on a movie scenario about the Cuban revolution. He has frequently expressed admiration for the Cubans and their way of life. Since his visit to the United States last year, however, he has generally refrained from anti-American statements such as the one in "Cuban Mother."

Yevtushenko has run afoul of Communist party literary censors in the past for his bitter criticism of certain aspects of Soviet life, particularly during the Stalinist period. But in recent months he has won praise from party cultural overseers for his contributions to Soviet propaganda.

Yevtushenko, at 30, is one of the kids of the Soviet Union's younger intellectuals. But Westerners lately have heard increasing criticism among these admirers of his recent "pot-boilers" for the Communist press.

They cite as an example a poem he wrote after anti-Soviet demonstrations in Helsinki last summer during the Communist-organized World Youth Festival. It said:

Gyorgy Marosan Is Ousted By Commies

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Vice President Gyorgy Marosan of Hungary, who claimed responsibility for calling in Soviet troops to crush the 1956 revolt, has been ousted from all his government and party jobs.

Budapest Radio, in a sharply worded announcement Sunday, said the Communist party Central Committee stripped Marosan of all his powers Friday because of his "fractionalism" and violation of party discipline.

The language indicated the ouster was a continuation of the high-level purge that Premier Janos Kadar has been conducting against internal opposition for several months.

Unlike some victims of Communist purges, Marosan is being given a pension.

The party committee said Marosan circulated a document charging that a clique "had been undermining his position in the party and his popularity and that the party was lacking collective leadership."

The announcement said the party committee rejected the charges as a "demonstration of his personal vanity and conceit."

Marosan, 54, a former Social Democrat, was ousted from his post as minister of light and industry in 1950 and was reported jailed under Kadar as a member of the Central Committee and Politburo, and he later became one of the party secretaries.

In January 1960 he became a member of the Presidential Council, which exercises the functions of Parliament between sessions, and a year ago became one of the country's two vice presidents, in charge of political affairs.

The announcement Sunday did not name a successor to any of his jobs.

Only two World War II years, 1942 with a $147-billion total and 1943 with $115 billion, exceeded the appropriations approved by the second session of the 87th Congress, which adjourned Saturday.

The 1962 total exceeds by more than $5 billion the $96.2 billion voted last year, the first of President Kennedy's administration.

However, it is about $3.8 billion less than Kennedy asked in his budget requests to Congress.

The total this year would have been slightly higher except that the legislators junked a $50-million clean-up supplemental bill before adjourning. But they said they would put it through soon after returning on Jan. 2.

Firemen In Training Session

BRODHEADSVILLE — More than 125 firemen from Monroe County attended a weekend fire school this past weekend in the Chestnut Hill School.

This was the sixth and largest fire school held in the history of the firemen's association. Total registration was 127 firemen representing 15 fire companies in the county.

Nine instructors conducted classes in ladder and rescue work, radiological and propane fires, basic hydraulics, smoke mask and pit fires. Several oil fires were set for practice use.

Lanterman Open House Set Tonight

LANTERMAN Funeral Home, East Stroudsburg, will hold open house today from 7 to 9 p.m. for the public.

The funeral home has recently undergone an addition. The building has been enlarged and a parking lot made.

The funeral home has been in operation the past 80 years. It was founded by Irwin W. Smith, father of the late Ethel Smith Lanterman, and was operated as the Smith and Burnett Funeral Home.

On the retirement of Mr. Burnett the business became known as the Smith and Raub Funeral Home, with the late Michael Raub as the partner. When Mr. Smith retired the business became known as Raub and Lanterman Funeral Home.

Mr. Raub retired in 1920 and J. Harold and John I. Lanterman joined their father, J. Howard Lanterman, and the business was named J. H. Lanterman & Sons Funeral Directors.

New Nations An The UN

Former President Herbert Hoover's proposal for the creation of a council of free, anti-communist nations, which he made at the dedication of the Hoover Library, certainly points in a needed direction.

This council, Mr. Hoover emphasized, would supplement, not replace, the United Nations.

UN impotence, on occasion after occasion, has resulted from the intransigence of the Soviet bloc. Now there is another totally unprecedented element to compound the problem. It is found in the creation of new African nation after new African nation. The extent of the problem can be realized from something written by Associated Press reporter Wes Gallagher: "... some states, like Burundi, are composed of hostile tribes in a small barren land boasting one-half mile of paved road—and one full vote in the United Nations. Africa has 200 million people speaking more than 900 different languages and dialects, divided by scores of religions as diverse as Christianity and idol worship..."

These new nations are largely illiterate, and are almost totally lacking in the technicians and professionals the life of a modern state demands. It will take incredible sums of money and, probably, scores of years before they approach civilization as we understand that word. Yet each, in the UN, has a vote equal to that of the oldest and most advanced nation, and each is being wooed zealously by the Communists. If we and the West are to make our full power felt in this chaotic and unpredictable world, there is a real need for a Free World organization along the lines that Mr. Hoover has suggested.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Historic Conclave

Until last week there had been 20 ecumenical councils of the Roman Catholic Church, an average of about one a century. Out of these councils have come doctrines, decisions, schisms and reforms that have had a profound effect in shaping Western civilization.

Now the 21st council, the largest gathering of Roman Catholic leaders in history, is in session. And it could well turn out to be one of the most influential.

Pope John XXIII, who has long since disapproved the impression that he would be a "transition Pope," announced his intention of convoking the Council in early 1959, just three months after he was elected to succeed Pope Pius XII. And as work proceeded on forming an agenda, Pope John developed a unique and ambitious set of goals for it.

Of primary interest to the world's 550 million Catholics will be the matter of doctrine. Here, as the Pope made clear in his opening address, the emphasis will not be on discussion of fundamental doctrine but on improved ways to interpret it and teach it.

In addition, there are two other large orders of business that will be of great interest to Catholics and non-Catholics alike.

One is a re-evaluation of the Church's role in modern life in the hope of developing more positive and more effective ways of fighting communism. In this, the Free World can be cheered by the prospect of the Church's becoming an even stronger bulwark against the Communist menace than it already is. Certainly, free men everywhere are at one with the Pope's observation that "men are ever more deeply convinced of the paramount dignity of the human person" and that "the might of arms and political domination are of no help at all in finding a happy solution to the grave problems that afflict them."

Finally, there is the Council's purpose, well publicized by this time, of taking a first step toward unifying the several branches of Christendom. There is a wide gap between the Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox churches and an even wider one between Catholic and Protestant churches. Yet the yearning of most Christians for closer ties has become stronger of late, and the prospect of eventual unity is not so remote as to defy an effort to begin. This Pope John intends to do, and this alone marks the 21st Ecumenical Council as an occasion of significance for all people.

Always Cuba

There are events in the history of a nation which are climactic and which are burned as with a fiery stilet on the hearts of a people. Such an event was the loss of Calais by England (1568) which altered that country's history, for it lost its foothold on the continent of Europe, never to regain it.

Such an event is Cuba. At first, it was believed that President Kennedy's advisors on foreign affairs pointed out to him that it is impossible to separate the problem of Cuba from the problem of Berlin; that if we reject a Communist base 90 miles from the United States, Soviet Russia is justified in objecting to American bases in Iran and Turkey and, for that matter, Pakistan.

The Battle of the Bay of Pigs gave rise to still another matter, namely, as members of the Organization of American States do we have the right to act unilaterally? We had acted unilaterally when we so thoroughly withheld aid from Batista, when we gave aid to Castro.

Also, while we permitted Castro's associates in Miami to smuggle men and munitions out of this country, thus violating our neutrality laws, we were adamant that Batista could get no supplies from us even after he had paid for them. This was unilateral interference in Cuban affairs.

Now, we have a well-organized Communist state in Cuba and the American people want something to be done about it. The Donovan negotiation is a meaningless diversion which, even if successful, may save a few lives and get Donovan a few votes, but the 6,743,000 souls of Cuba remain under a brutal, paranoid-type of Communist oppression. They will be reduced to slaves by the Russians who will use Cuba for whatever purpose they wish to.

We could in 1958-59 have saved ourselves by supporting Batista against Castro or by supporting neither Castro nor Batista but a moderate citizen's party — a coalition of civic forces. This we did not do because of doctrinaire notions of our policy-makers on the fourth floor of the State Department and the Latin American experts of "The New York Times," who wield great influence.

What can we get out of Khrushchev, who is the realistic master of Cuba? A negotiation might get us a deal by which Soviet Russia would leave Cuba if we got out of Berlin. Such a deal would fail ultimately because the German-French alliance would not tolerate it; NATO would be destroyed immediately.

Soviet Russia would seek to cover its activities by attempting to make an economic deal with the Common Market which would be to our disadvantage.

It could induce the Russians to provoke trouble with Germany which would lead to the ultimate conquest of Germany and even France unless we came in again.

Let us say that the Russians did not push the Berlin question but limited the deal to our getting out of Turkey and Iran if the Russians got out of Cuba. That would make the Mediterranean a Russian lake, with Egypt, a satellite, at one end and Algeria an ally at the other.

It would shut off south Europe to us, imperil Greece and Italy and neutralize our bases in Spain. It would force the new African nations to follow the lead of Soviet Russia in the United Nations and probably, in a short time, develop such an antagonistic public opinion in the United States, that this country would be forced to get out of the United Nations.

This may sound fantastic in 1962; it is not as fantastic as the existence of 109 members of the United Nations, many of the states being utterly absurd, but independent nevertheless.

At this moment, there is only one way out of the Cuban fiasco and that is for the United States to invoke the Monroe Doctrine, unilaterally to declare the principle of the Platt Amendments binding and then to go into Cuba and to take it over, as we did before. The risk?

The risk could be war with Soviet Russia. Each Administration wishes to push such a war

Scranton Belies Campaign Marks

By Mason Denison
With Scranton Campaign caravan — "Cool cookie" Bill Scranton, Pennsylvania's Republican candidate for the governorship, unquestionably belies the pandemonium, confusion and sweat-brewing gloom and puffing that marks his campaign caravan as it rumbles across the Pennsylvania countryside!

What's it like to "ride" the Republican gubernatorial campaign caravan? This is a report on such a sojourn into the world of campaign blood and thunder in the land of the elephant riders.

(In an upcoming ditty we'll follow through with the counter-punching campaign caravan of Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Richardson Dilworth.)

Re the "cool cookie" appellation: forty-five-year-old William Warren Scranton is about as smooth and untruffled a gent under fire as you'll find anywhere. Seemingly he's almost oblivious to the hub-bub, commotion and nerve-jangling scramble of campaign caravanning that sends aids hurrying to the ulcer pits and somewhat disorganized nervous wrecks.

This is perhaps one of the most striking traits to be found in campaigner Scranton; he never seems to lose his poise; his well modulated but forceful voice continues its soothing pace although the situation may be somewhat tumultuous; no crisis seems serious enough to warrant a trip to the wailing wall. If personal demeanor is to be shattered, the bruising campaign trail is the one place that will bring it to the open.

But in addition to this unruffled even-flowing (outward at least) mannerism that pinpoints Mr. Scranton in the heat of campaign, is this other trait that most certainly is of equal importance, and in the opinion of this column of perhaps far greater importance:

He enjoys not only an almost inborn ability to talk fluently, evenly and flowingly — but also to think fast, think deep and pull upon an amazing memory for detail.

(Republicans — and Democrats — may not like the analogy, but in this respect he is alarmingly similar to former Democratic Governor George Leader who seemed to grasp speedily and retain with almost fantastic accuracy, details and specifics about the minutest functions of state government.)

Incumbent Democratic Governor Lawrence may continually insist that Mr. Scranton is "completely ignorant" about state government and the office he seeks — but we'll wager a bet that William W. Scranton can out-detail Mr. Lawrence any day on specific state government functions! The guy's off-the-cuff knowledge is amazing.

You find all these things out as you travel with a campaign caravan; you don't find them out from reading mimeographed press releases, speeches, taped radio or television programs and the like.

The campaign caravan with its built-in setbacks; its tumultuous pace; its constant bump-ups against the unexpected; its nerve-wracking psychological spills; its bitter physical pace off but it would seem to me that we have reached Armageddon and that we either do the job or make up our minds to lose Venezuela next; Brazil and Panama after that, and then witness a Fascist-Communist Revolution in the Argentine with Peron back on a white horse.

and its constant wear-down — the campaign caravan is the crisis; the acute and critical insight for the observant.

The Republican Scranton-Ford-Governor campaign is anything but the exception.

The man or woman on the street (corner); the avid individual who attends the party dinners, fund raising events, the speeches and the on-the-surface hoopla and the host of other "public" events, sees only part of the candidate picture.

The brutal showdown is the grind of the caravan itself day in and day out; how well or perhaps just plain "how" the candidate holds up underneath and behind the public face we've just mentioned.

Although we'll be riding the campaign train for a couple of days in this column, it's clearly evident that in the case of "cool cookie" Bill Scranton, he can indeed "hold up with the best of em'!"

(Tomorrow: detailing it on the GOP caravan.)

About Town

If Ted Kennedy goes to Washington, he sure will have kin-folks to stay with.

There is a group of four satirists playing in London which is the big hit of the English theatrical season. One of their skits pokes fun at President Kennedy's rhetoric at a press conference. It goes thusly:

KENNEDY: Let us never negotiate through fear, but let us never fear to negotiate. Nor let us fear to fear from negotiating with fear; or negotiate to fear in fearing that negotiations by fear will bring fear from fearing in negotiations. Nor that whereas to negotiate with negotiations of fear may negotiate a fear that fear may negotiate to fear by fear and from fear of negotiating may negotiate a fearful negotiation.

REPORTER: Mr. President, could you sum up for us, please?

KENNEDY: Could I sum up? Yes. We are at war.

The editor of a weekly newspaper in Montana recently published a list of stories his "average reader" preferred to see in his publication. The list reportedly was based on a questionnaire he submitted to his readers.

What he said they liked are listed in order of preference below:

1. My name.
2. A front-page article showing how crooked the city government is most of the time.
3. My wife's name.
4. A feature article showing 25 ways on how to cheat on income tax forms.
5. My kid's name.
6. A classified ad offering a new home for sale for $10,000.
7. More news about law-breakers.
8. Less news about law-breakers. I was picked up last night and I should not have to pay a fine.
9. An editorial condemning high school teachers for being too liberal with "Fs."
10. A wedding picture of the groom instead of the bride when he is more handsome than she is pretty.
11. A picture of me when I bowled 183.
12. More advertisements on things that merchants are giving away.

18. Less stuff about how cute everybody else's kids are. My kids are better looking than those you rave on about.

19. A complete biographical sketch about the "most important citizen in town," and be sure you spell my name right.

The Allen-Scott Report

Under Congressional Fire As World Bank Nominee

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington, Oct. 15 — George D. Woods, Republican financier and a central figure in the Dixon-Yates conflict-of-interest case in the early fifties, is being considered as successor to Eugene R. Black, president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

The controversial Woods, 61, is chairman of the First Boston Corporation, one of the largest investment underwriters in the world.

His nomination as Black's replacement is now on President Kennedy's desk. If approved, the selection will be informally sent to the World Bank directors who make the official decision.

In the past, the directors have followed U.S. recommendations in selecting their head, as this country is the largest "subscriber" to the World Bank's $20.5 billion fund. The directors plan to do the same in naming Black's successor.

Black, who is retiring early in 1963, has served as the Bank's president since 1949, when he succeeded New York banker John J. McCloy. His present term expires in May.

Woods' approval by President Kennedy would be a sure thing except for his controversial role in the Dixon-Yates case, which touched off a full-scale Senate investigation in 1954-55, and resulted in cancellation of the multi-million dollar power contract.

Woods' appointment was lauded as "top-drawer" by dozens of businessmen and cabinet members consulted by the President. One called him "a man of vision and competence."

He rose from office boy to boss by his own efforts. He was the architect of some of the greatest deals in American financial history — such as raising an incredible $1.5 billion to finance the Henry J. Kaiser enterprises.

Even Senator Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., who headed the Dixon-Yates investigation, reports that the ebullient Woods appears to be the President's top choice among a dozen possible candidates for Black's job.

Others on the list include Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin, Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon, Undersecretary of State George Ball, and former Defense Secretary Thomas Gates.

THE BIG HURDLE — But there is one big hurdle. Many of the liberal Democrats in Congress — notably Senator Kefauver — are of no mind to permit the selection of Woods without a fight. Already, they have taken their case directly to the President.

"Woods' selection would be a slap in the face of every Democratic senator who took part in exposing the Dixon-Yates scandal," Kefauver warned the President.

He pointed out how, "Woods, as chairman of First Boston, had engineered the unsuccessful Dixon-Yates power deal. . . . admitting he had volunteered to help the Eisenhower Administration move the Tennessee Valley Authority's public power facilities into the private power field."

A similar private attack by Senator Kefauver last year succeeded in dissuading the President from nominating Woods to head the U.S. Agency for International Development. The President had been all set to send Woods' name to the Senate when Kefauver and company descended on the White House.

But there is no definite assurance that this frontal attack will succeed again. In his talk with Kefauver, the President did not reveal his intentions, other than to thank the Tennessee legislator for his views.

CHANGING SITUATION — Unlike the AID nomination, Woods does not need Senate confirmation for the World Bank post. Supporters claim that this mighty obstacle figured largely in the President's decision not to go through with his nomination of Woods for the foreign aid position.

In the present situation, Senator Kefauver lacks the powerful threat of a confirmation fight. Instead, he and his supporters have only the nuisance value of their private and public blasts. The latter weapon, still to be used, could be highly explosive if directed at the President.

Woods, whose company is the nation's largest utility financier, has been especially active in attracting private capital investments to India in recent years. He also has had a great deal of experience in private financing of foreign aid for the United Arab Republic.

It was Woods' first vice president, Adolph W. Wendell, who set off the Dixon-Yates conflict-of-interest investigation by holding the dual role of consultant to the Bureau of the Budget while still serving as a First Boston executive.

Testimony before the Kefauver Committee revealed that Woods had proposed Wendell's employment to then-Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge.

The World Bank post is one of the prize political plums in Washington, with a salary of $40,000 after taxes, plus worldwide travel with all expenses paid. As president, Black has visited all of the 81 member nations to supervise the granting of loans which have now grown to $4.5 billion.

IN THE CABLES — Arturo Jauregui, Secretary General of the Regional Inter-American Labor Organization, has telegraphed Algerian Prime Minister Ahmed Ben Bella that he has proposed visit to Cuba which would have an adverse effect on the Free Union movement of this continent.

In his telegram, Jauregui asks Ben Bella "to refrain from approving a visit, with a view to the most contemptible group of tyrants among the many which have afflicted the Americas. . . . In order to keep Senator Strom Thurmond D-S-C, under wraps at this week's Inter-Parliamentary Union in Brazil, the State Department has asked him to speak on "disarmament." Senator Thurmond, who is advocating a naval blockade of Cuba, plans to cut-off State officials by suggesting that the starting point be Cuba — with the Soviet withdrawing its MIGs and missiles.

DEAR JEFFERY: Because your father wants to teach you to SAVE money. And when you've saved enough to buy the new bike, you'll really appreciate it. However, if you explain it to your Dad the way you've explained it to me, you'll probably get the bike tomorrow.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is a business woman so you know she is not stupid. She is an attractive, 48-year-old divorcee. She has permitted a young man (ten years her junior) to live in her home since March. My sixteen-year-old brother lives there too. The whole thing is probably innocent but I don't think it looks right. She is not the type you can talk to. Should I do anything?

DEAR DAUGHTER: Yes. Talk to her. Maybe you have her "typed" wrong.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

DEAR BOY: Until 9:00 p.m. But if you got an A in spelling, I think your teacher is staying up too late.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old and want a new bike. My father says I can have it if I save up the money for it. It costs a fortune. I get my money from my father. So why should I take the money from my father and give it to the Cycle Shop? Why doesn't my father just give the money to the Cycle Shop and leave me out of it?

As Baby recovers, your doctor will probably prescribe boiled skim milk. Then crackers, cereal, etc., until he's back on his regular diet.

A tablespoon of kapectate every few hours binds water that irritates the lower intestine. Adults are entitled to 1 teaspoon of paregoric, but Baby gets none without doctor's orders.

DEAR ABBY: Every summer my mother-in-law comes to visit us for two weeks. She is not hard to get along with but here is my complaint: She takes over my kitchen and makes "all the things Sammy likes." All year I am careful not to give Sam rich or fattening foods because he has a tendency to put on weight. (He weighs 170 now and should weigh 155.) His mother cooks with schmaltz and makes noodle dishes until I think I will scream. Sam put on 15 pounds in the two weeks she was here. He says he'll take it off, but I know he won't. I can't tell his mother to stay out of my kitchen, and Sam loves to eat that stuff. What should I do?

SAM'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: At the rate Sam is going, if he puts on 15 pounds every year, by 1970 he'll weigh 290! Tell Sam's mother if she doesn't quit killing Sam with kindness, you'll be Sam's widow.

DEAR ABBY: How laid do you think a boy in the 6th grade should be about to stay up if he gets up at seven in the morning and makes strait A's?

State Auditors Recommend Procedures To Ross Board

Editors Note: Another in a series of articles dealing with state audits of schools in the area. They were compiled and submitted by Auditor General's Office, Harrisburg.

Ross Township School District

Seven areas in the review of cash receipts and disbursements and minutes were recommended for correct or improved procedures by the auditors in their examination of this school board. They were:

1. Coding of checks by account classification.
2. Responsible and accurate classification in the posting of cash journal entries.
3. Periodic reconciliation of the bank to the book balance and retention of worksheets reflecting these reconciliations.
4. Mitigation of voided checks to prevent use.
5. Inclusion in the minutes of the monthly report of the treasurer to the secretary of funds received and disbursed by him.
6. Notation in the minutes that public notice of the proposed budget has been carried out as set forth by School Code.
7. Inclusion in the minutes of the approved budget.

Expenditures from the general fund for the school year ended July 5, 1959 aggregated $59,860.39, and state reimbursements and subsidies received during the school year ended July 3, 1960, totaled $35,285.45.

Coty Corp. Proposes Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of Coty International Corp., a holding company, have proposed a merger with a 99 per cent owned subsidiary in a move to streamline corporate structure.

The subsidiary is Omnilum de Participations Industrielles de Luxe, S. A., a Panamanian holding company.

Under the plan, to be voted upon Dec. 10 by shareholders, one share Omnilum would be exchanged for each share of Coty International.

Acquires Purchase

NEW YORK (AP) — De Soto Chemical Coatings Inc. of Chicago said it acquired the building products division of Sonneborn Chemical and Refining Corp. of New York for an undisclosed sum. The division makes concrete additives, water proofing compounds, sealants and protective coatings.

De Soto makes wallpaper and paint.

"Rally around your schools and their programs and look to the future," the speaker urged. He noted it is a new world, a new life, a new way of being, all of which will require a "going" educational program. We must look to the future through education if survival is to be ours. Our enemies the world over have placed education as the high point of all civilization, its being and its end. Therefore, we cannot take the wait and see attitude that many are willing to invoke.

"Look at the things you find in this building, its modern facilities, good for the present, planned for the future and designed to incorporate modern learning for children and adults both, directed by a capable faculty and a willing populace that does not want a second best but one that has an eye for the future."

I wish to congratulate you for what you have done, and what you have planned, but this is just the beginning, and you must be ready to be a part of greater things to come. Here, the builder has placed the stones, in ordered row, now you must utilize that which you have and build even greater things, out of this excellent beginning.

Dr. Boehm was introduced by G. Raymond Todd, supt. of the Northampton County Schools, who credited the speaker with progress in the schools of Penna.

Recounts Work Done

Walter Emery, a member of the joint board from Portland and chairman of the building committee served as the master of ceremonies and recounted the steps in the growth of the joint school system.

Selections were rendered by the Bangor Area Joint High School Band under the direction of Allan G. Miller prior to the start of the program and Miss Margery Davis, staff organist of the Allen Organ Company was heard in a recital played on the new organ in the auditorium, the gift of the students of the high school.

The Rev. Dr. John O. Reagle, pastor emeritus of the Trinity United Church of Christ at Stone Church offered the invocation and Warren Oswald, representing the architectural firm of Everett Associates, planners of the building presented the keys to William D. Scott, chairman of the Bangor School Authority. Mr. Scott outlined the work of the authority in planning and building the edifice and in turn presented the keys to Dr. Nicholas Cascario, president of the Bangor Area Joint School Committee since 1958.

Dr. Cascario accepted the keys, made remarks on the plans of the school and presented the keys in turn to Donald B. Keat, supt. of the Bangor Area Joint School System.

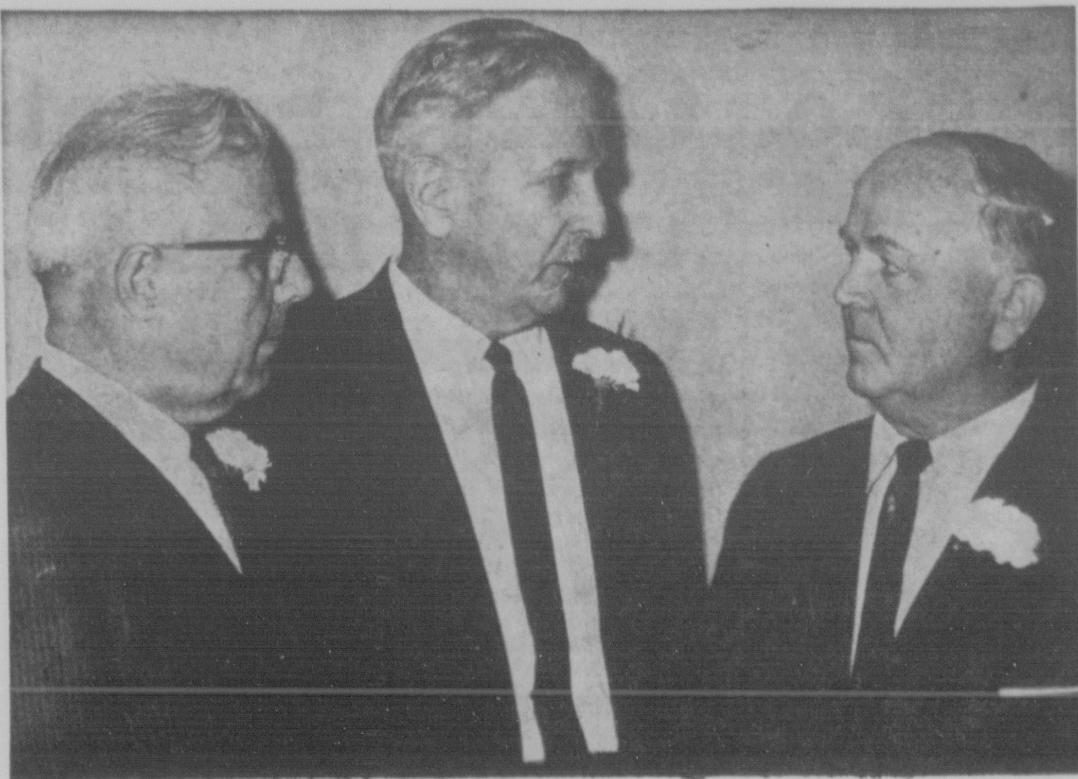

Mr. Keat outlined the work of the faculty in the building planning and in turn presented the keys to Gary Dell Alba, president of the Student Council of the school who formally accepted the school for the student body.

Musical Selections

Selections were sung by the Senior High School Mixed Chorus directed by Miss Faye Seneca and the benediction was offered by the Rev. Richard J. Loeper, C. M. principal of Pius X High School. Floral decorations were presented by the Parent Teachers Association of the following elementary schools in the district: Columbus, Portland, McKinley, Lincoln, Roosevelt, East Bangor and Washington Township.

The joint schools were hosts at the reception following the ceremonies in the cafeteria of the school. The school was also open for inspection to all persons following the program and many hundreds took advantage of the opportunity to visit the school.

Members of the high school cheerleaders and the majorettes of the band served as the ushers for the dedication.

A-Frame Home Is New And Exciting

SOMETHING new and exciting in modern homes... the A-Frame home. Now you can see it just across the street from the R. C. Cramer Lumber Company yards on N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. The A-Frame is pre-cut and ready for delivery to your building site.

One of the many features of this modernistic home is the Lock-Deck Bevel... it consists of three laminations of Inland cedar. Tongue and grooved and end matched, it produces an exterior appearance like heavy shakes and an interior face of rustic wood paneling.

Instead of first applying roof sheathing, then a layer of building paper, and finally a layer of shingles or roof shakes, all of these three steps are accomplished in one labor-saving application of LOCK-DECK BEVEL.

The Lock-Deck Bevel will also span longer distances than ordinary roof sheathing, requiring fewer A-frames. The insulation value of the material and its attractive rustic interior appearance are 2 reasons for excellence.

Instructions on how to use the material are included with the plans that provide for a caulking strip to be placed between each tongue and groove joint.

Besides the 480 square feet that are found on the main floor level, a sleeping loft of over 120 square feet is reached by means of a centrally located ladder. Thus, four or five people may use this compact little cabin for complete enjoyment. Over-all width of the building is 20 feet and total depth is 24 feet (this does not include the deck that projects six feet at the entry).

The main bedroom measures 11 feet 10 inches by 10 feet three inches and connects with a complete bathroom. Latter contains space for stall shower, lavatory, water closet and water heater. Plumbing fixtures, kitchen cabinets, and wiring are not furnished with the pre-cut package; however, complete information on location and installation are furnished in the working plans.

Primarily a vacation-type home, it is ideal for a rustic hunting cabin that requires little space. $2,820 will bring this pre-cut compact home to your building site.

To see how it looks when completely constructed, take a trip to R. C. Cramer Lumber Co., N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, where one is standing, just across the street.

PICTURE IS ONE OF AMERICA'S Leading Compact A-Frame homes. The overall dimensions are 20 feet by 24 feet. Ideal for vacation time home or hunting cabin. See it completely constructed just across the street from the R. C. Cramer Lumber Company, N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, and further information at the offices of The Cramer Lumber Co. at one of four yards located in Wind Gap, Portland, Pocono Summit and East Stroudsburg.

Sears Offer Many New Power Operated Toys

A WATER-powered rocket soars into the sky and launches a capsule carrying an astronaut, who parachutes to the ground—right in your own backyard.

An atomic submarine fires torpedoes and Polaris missiles—in your bathtub.

A house of the future features no walls—so four little girls can play house with their dolls at the same time.

A portable battery-powered sewing machine provides automatic sewing—for all kinds of doll clothes.

That's just a wink-size peek at the thousands of toys and games for Christmas, 1962. And that magic day is coming, sooner than you think. Sears, Roebuck and Co. said today that its new Christmas Book, now being distributed here, soon will be arriving in more than 8 million homes across the nation.

The 472-page book features the largest selection of toys and games in Sears history, with more than 150 pages devoted to these lines.

For Mother, there are new dresses and coats designed by Claude Riviere, famed Parisian couturier who is creating American styles exclusively for Sears. And other fashions in the holiday spirit—featuring Holly Red, Winter White and Glittering Gold, as well as The Velvet Look.

For Dad, there's a battery-powered vibrating hair brush to keep company with his battery-powered tooth brush, shaver and shoe polisher. For his workshop, there's a wide range of power tools to make his job easier. And if he's a hunter, there's a new M-1 Carbine—a short, low-recoil .30 caliber rifle that weighs just five and a half pounds.

For the younger set, there are age-keyed toys and activity sets for fun and learning. And for Big Sister and Brother, there is a wide range of educational and scientific kits, sporting goods, and apparel.

And even Rover isn't overlooked—there's a selection of cuddly pet slippers for tiny tots, so he can sleep at his young master's feet beside a fuzzy blue or pink kitty, a red mouse, a pink or honey bunny, or even a brown poodle.

Visit the Catalog Desk at Sears, 560 Main St., Stroudsburg—or simply and very easily phone in your order.

Changes In The 1963 Thunderbird

THUNDERBIRD for 1963, the finest quality car ever produced by Ford Division, incorporates more than 2,500 engineering and design changes readied over the last 18 months.

"The Thunderbird is the most changed car we are offering for 1963," said Frank Weller, Haynes Motors Sales Manager. "Yet, for the most part, the changes are inside the vehicle."

Scores of these changes were made, not because they were absolutely necessary, but because they made the car better, Frank said.

The Thunderbird has long been recognized, for example, as one of the quietest cars on the road. Yet, to what it already had, Ford engineers added 150 pounds of sound deadener. This is more than twice the amount normally put into other vehicles, Mr. Weller explained.

Other 1963 Thunderbird features for added comfort and convenience include 100,000-mile chassis lubrication, a new, quieter, longer-life exhaust system, new hydraulically-powered windshield wiper motor, new alternator, new windshield molding to reduce wind noise, and new circuit breakers built into the power windows. The traditional 1,000-mile new car inspection has been eliminated.

On The House

By ANDY LANG

THERE'S an old saying that if a man can't put a new washer in a faucet, he isn't much of a home handy-man. True or not, it is a fact that many persons who tackle major projects around the house will do everything possible to avoid tangling with faucets.

Changing a washer actually is fairly simple IF you remember to shut off the water before you begin. This is done either by turning the valve to that particular line in a clockwise direction. If you can't find the valve—or if, as sometimes happens, there is no line valve—then the main water valve in the house must be shut off.

The next step is to loose the nut directly under the faucet handle, turning it counter-clockwise. Place adhesive tape on the nut or on the jaws of the handle to avoid scratching the fixture. When the nut is loose, turn the faucet handle in the same direction as though you were turning on the water. The entire faucet assembly then will come loose. Remove it and you will find that, at the bottom of the stem or spindle, there is a screw holding a washer in place.

All that is necessary now is to take off the screw and old washer and replace them with a new screw and a new washer. Sometimes the old screw will be so battered that you'll be unable to turn it with the screwdriver. In that event, cut away the old washer, which will leave the head of the screw exposed. It can now be removed with a pliers.

Reassemble the faucet parts, turn on the water and there no longer will be a leak—MAYBE. We say maybe because even a new washer won't help if the valve seat is worn or corroded. That doesn't happen too often, but if it does, you'll have to buy what is called a valve seat re-sealer, refacer or redresser. They're inexpensive and can be purchased at almost any hardware store.

Rev. Bernard R. McIlhenny

Communion Breakfast Speaker

Rev. Bernard R. McIlhenny S. J. will be the guest speaker at the 19th annual Communion breakfast of St. Matthews Altar and Rosary Society, at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on Sunday, October 21.

Rev. McIlhenny was born in Philadelphia, graduated from St. John's Prep and St. Joseph's College. He is at present headmaster of Scranton Preparatory School.

Rev. McIlhenny previously taught at Gonzaga High School, Washington, D.C., and St. Joseph's College. He is at present headmaster of Scranton Preparatory School.

Mrs. Charles Poalillo, chairman, announced that Mass will be celebrated at 8 a.m. in St. Luke's Church followed by breakfast at the Penn-Stroud Hotel at 9:30 a.m.

New Sewing Method Class To Be Offered

Mountainhome — An opportunity to learn the "Bishop's Method" of sewing will be offered by Miss Margaret McClaren, Monroe County Home Economist, at the Barrett Branch YMCA, if enough local women are interested.

The course would be given one day a week at the YMCA in all day sessions to last for a six-week period. The method demonstrates new modes of machine sewing with numerous "shortcuts" and ease of fitting patterns and cutting materials.

To register for the course, interested women may call Mrs. Paul Rensenwitz, 556-2736. There will be no charge for the course, each woman would have to supply her own materials. Registrations are open for 15 women. Registrations must be made by Thursday.

Kellersville WSCS Bazaar

Kellersville — The Kellersville Women's Society of Christian Service will hold its annual bazaar on Saturday, Oct. 20, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Kellersville Church. Featured will be baked goods, fancywork and refreshments including chicken and beef barbecues, hamburgers, hot dogs, sodas, ice cream, tea, coffee, homemade pie and cake. There will also be a fishpond for the children.

Women's Club Meeting

Bangor and Pen Argyl Women's Clubs will be the guests of the Portland Women's Club on Tuesday, October 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the clubrooms on State St. On the program will be Mrs. Harrison Taylor who will talk on "Artistry in Flowers" and tenor soloist, Robert Wolbert, of Stroudsburg.

SHARON ANN WILSON, daughter of Mrs. Albert Eschenbach of Long Pond and Harvey E. Wilson, Connecticut, celebrated her 16th birthday, Sept. 30. Miss Wilson is a student at Pocono Mountain Joint High School.

Community Concert Dates Set

Dates for the 1962-1963 Community Concert season were announced yesterday by Mrs. H. Burton George, chairman of the association.

Donald Gram, bass baritone, will appear Oct. 22. Charles Rosen, will present a program of piano selections Nov. 27. Johnny Eaton and the American Jazz Ensemble will appear February 11, 1963. The Westminster Choir will present the choral program March 14.

Mailing of the membership tickets began today. Dates of the concerts will appear on the back of the tickets, Mrs. George said.

Homecoming Services Held In Blakeslee

Blakeslee — Traditional homecoming services were held yesterday at the Methodist Church here. The opening session of the day-long festivities, which included the "Service of Consecration" for the new Church School addition, began with the 10 a.m. Sunday School services.

The interior of the sanctuary was appropriately beautified with vases of flowers placed along the altar. These flowers were presented by various members of the church in memory of those who are no longer with them.

A large turnout of members and friends from home and afar were on hand to welcome back the Rev. James Pain, former pastor of the church. Rev. Pain served in this community in 1955 and again in early 1966. He is now located at Drew University as assistant professor of religion. His message, "Wanted: Dead or Alive!" was well received by the assembled people at the 11:05 a.m. service.

Both the Junior and Senior choirs took part in the morning service. After the morning services, everyone journeyed to the Community House where the ladies of the WSCS had already prepared turkey with all the trimmings, for the Homecoming Fellowship Dinner.

Dr. Price M. Collins, North District Superintendent, Philadelphia Conference, conducted the service of consecration for the new building addition at 2:30 p.m. Church pastor, Rev. Jerry Crossley also took part in this service.

The 3 p.m. Homecoming Service was held at the church with guests, Rev. Pain and Dr. Collins taking part along with Rev. Crossley. A special selection was presented by Miss Phyllis Keiper of Pocono Lake.

PFC. Rodney Waltz, U. S. Army, Ft. Slocum, N. Y., regular church organist, was at his regular position at the organ for all the festivities. He is currently spending a two-week furlough from his duties along the Hudson.

The weather was wonderful, the autumn foliage beautiful and the services inspiring, all working together to make this day one to be remembered by all those present at the services.

PTA Postponed

The meeting of the Pleasant Valley Elementary Parent-Teachers Assn., originally scheduled for Oct. 10, has been postponed until Oct. 25.

Stroud Union Parents Go To School

Parents of students at Stroud Union High School will join in the learning experience tonight as the special committee incorporates several types of open house at the "Back To School" session beginning at 7:30 in the high school.

The committee has arranged a list of information containing the grading system used in respective classes; the number of book reports, term papers and special projects and when each is due; how a student may make up work missed and what is expected in homework.

Short class sessions will be held until 9 p.m. with refreshments following in the cafeteria. Parents interested in joining PTA are asked to come early to receive their programs and membership cards.

Members of the committee responsible for the pilot meeting were led by co-chairmen, Mrs. Parke Kunkle and Mrs. Sol Rothenstein. Committee members are Mahlon Serfass, Raymond Serfass, Alfred Munson, Miss Secor, Mrs. Andrew Keiser, Mrs. Willard Kintz, Jr., Mrs. James Kitson.

Mrs. Morgan Hostess For Bridge Club

Portland — The Afternoon Card Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Harry Morgan on Thursday afternoon. Bridge was played and prizes awarded to Mrs. E. Randall Carpenter and Mrs. Raymond Tranter.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. O. K. Sorensen of Johnsonville; Mrs. Bert Tranter of Mount Bethel Rd.; Mrs. Lela Williams of Stateford; Mrs. Ernest Courtney, Mrs. Raymond Tranter, Mrs. E. Randall Carpenter and Mrs. Frank Gardner and the hostess Mrs. Morgan.

The club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. O. K. Sorensen at Johnsonville on Thursday afternoon.

Local Pastor Guest Speaker At Sessions

Pastor Bruce J. Fox of the Stroudsburg Seventh-Day Adventist Church, will be the guest speaker at the Teachers Institute which is to be held at High Point Inn, October 14 through 16.

Pastor Fox will speak Tuesday morning on the subject, "The Second Vatican Council". Educational leaders from Washington, D. C. and Reading, will be present.

Pastor D. D. Baldwin, Superintendent of Education for the East Pennsylvania Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists will be in charge of the 3-day session.

Junior Woman's Board

The executive board of the Junior Woman's Club will meet Tuesday night at 8 at the Stroud Community House.

Mt. Pocono WSCS

Mount Pocono — The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will meet Wednesday night at 8 with Mrs. William Wright conducting the meeting.

Creamed chicken takes to patty shells — but try giving the chicken extra interest by enriching the sauce with an egg yolk or two and some drained capers.

If you have to keep oven-fired chicken hot for tardy guests, turn the heat low and baste it occasionally with the melted butter or margarine in the pan.

OPEN 24 HOURS A DAY

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

CHANGE IN HOURS... Beginning this morning, store hours will change here at Wyckoff-Sears for a period of two weeks. Instead of the usual nine o'clock opening, we will open the doors daily at 9:30... and instead of being open one night a week we will be open two, Wednesday as well as Friday, until 9 p.m.

This change of store hours is not surprising to our long-time customers, for we have been doing this every October for years. But to those of you who are new in this area, I might add the hint that whenever our store hours change at Wyckoff-Sears you can be sure other big news is in the making. Be sure to watch the ads; listen to the radio, and keep your eyes on WYCKOFF'S.

CHANGE IN PERSONALITY... The other afternoon, a strange face peered around the frame of my office door, and the intruder remarked that she objected to something I'd written in the Wyckoff Shopper column. Frankly, I was less concerned about her comment than I was about the state of her hair. It was, to put it mildly, a mess.

"Come in," I invited... only to be convulsed with laughter when I discovered my guest was Marlene Andrews, of our Advertising department, wearing one of the black hat-wigs from our Millinery department. I couldn't decide for a moment whom she resembled... was it Anna Magnani, or the Golliwog from a perfume bottle?

The change was so hilariously drastic, all of us urged her to add this to her collection of chapeaux and wear it home to Mother. Her courage failed at this point, but she did succumb to a blonde one on the following day, and tells me she had a ball fooling her friends in Allentown.

Frankly, I think these hats are so far out they should be orbited with the next astronaut... but the teen-agers are so mad for the fad it has swept the nation (maybe even the world, heaven help us!) like a new broom. I am sure if the girls had been born with hair like this, they'd spend every cent of their allowance on having their locks thinned and shaped... but the feminine heart is a capricious thing. Who can account for the way a woman thinks... or the extent to which she'll go to catch the roving eye of an impressionable male? I will say this... I have seen a few of those wigs of ours, brushed, combed and manipulated by our Wyckoff Beauty Salon so that they look very attractive... and I've also seen a number of girls who are really stunning in them.

Certainly they are an inexpensive way to experiment with one's personality, and to pretend at being a femme fatale. For a mere 3.98, a mousey blonde can be a raven-haired Cleopatra; for 3.98 a dingy-bron haird gal can be a dazzling silver-haired charmer. And she can see for herself that a change in hair coloring really does change one's personality. She MAY lose her favorite beau, or even her husband, during the experience, but she can revert to her old sweet self in a jiffy. And the second-time around she may be more deeply appreciated by the long-suffering man in her life.

WITH HALLOWEEN COMING ON, why not invest in one of these wigs just for the fun of it? For Halloween costumes, shop our Toy Department, Main Floor.

Day In Poconos For Senior Girl Scouts

Girl Scout Senior Planning Board of Stroudsburg-Pocono Girl Scout Council met recently at Girl Scout House, Stroudsburg. Miss Jane Belhke, president, was in charge. Plans were presented for the forthcoming year which included a day in the Poconos, an International Folk Art Festival, Senior Weekend at Camp Archbald, and a Mother and Daughter Banquet.

On November 2, 3 and 4, a Senior Planning Board Weekend will be held at Camp Archbald. It is necessary that two representatives from each Senior Girl Scout troop attend, as there will be a Planning Board business meeting on Nov. 2 at camp. Reservations are to be sent to Miss Tanya Buddwalk, 409 May Street, Mayfield.

"A Day in the Poconos" for all Senior Scouts will be held on December 29 at Mt. Airy Lodge. Winter sports, indoor swimming and a college career panel will be offered. Further plans will be made at the Nov. 2 meeting.

Following the business meeting, Miss Susan Mannoff, who attended All-States Encampment in Hammond, Ind. this summer, gave a report on her activities there. Miss Mannoff is a member of troop 48 in Stroudsburg.

Miss Belhke then presented the national and international opportunities for Senior Scouts. Miss Catherine Peters, Planning Board Advisor, and Miss Anna Johns, staff advisor, were also present.

The executive board of the Junior Woman's Club will meet Tuesday night at 8 at the Stroud Community House.

Mass Care Exhibition Tonight

FRANKLIN E. Weller, division chief of welfare, Monroe County Civil Defense, announced last night a meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the home 2540, VFW, Stroudsburg, to demonstrate mass care.

The meeting will consist of a conducted tour of the mass care group showing the unit in operation. Plans call for the showing of each job in detail so that any question that may be in an individual's mind can be answered.

The group putting on the demonstration has won a state award for two years in succession.

Weller, who was recently appointed to the position, urges anyone in the county interested in CD work to appear at the meeting.

Parents Still Have Hopes

UMTATA, South Africa (AP)—An American missionary from Pennsylvania and his wife, who are working in the Transkei African reserve on the Indian Ocean, said Friday they have not given up hope for their two lost children.

Hundreds of people have joined the search for 7-year-old Vincent Gray and his 5-year-old sister, Sue.

They are the children of the Rev. Burton Gray and his wife of Weedville, Elk County. He is attached to the Pilgrim Holiness Church at Mount Freere.

Mrs. Gray flew back from a holiday in America Wednesday after she heard the children were missing. The Grays have ten children.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Monday, October 15, 1962
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Command your area with firmness and facts. Allow for discretion, but do not give inordinate leniency. Today must help you whole week, so keep it and yourself in line.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Bring deals to bear on profitable conclusions when you are sure the moment is right. You are a productive thinker, can out imagine into things. (10)

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — If you missed something last week, and it is still desirable, go get it. You can now take care of them, contracts, expansion. But spend to earn.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Not much planetary help here but you CAN take steps toward acquiring the results you want. Invest only if not immediately. Watch statements, accounts, budget.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't let ideas that could benefit you and your loved ones get away from you. For good results, follow through immediately. Commence buying, installing, or new methods and devices favored.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — You can profit by advice to Leo now. Your inherent sensitivity and understanding of others' desires can put you in a position to regulate things and deliver top returns. Study plans, take him.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Stress your affability and practicality. Commence first impressions with what you learn later he neither too lenient nor too rigid. Trust in your abilities.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Don't drop one important matter to pick up another, unless it is urgent. You could get into too many projects this way. Be prudent in romance, with money, and other assets.

November 24 to December 23 (Sagittarius) — Changes affecting science, home-making, education and politics indicated. Note carefully all factors and, accordingly, gain. Be sure your path is the right one.

December 24 to January 23 (Capricorn) — Branch out to some extent. However, observe the limitations of others and be wise. You may encounter a few complexities.

January 24 to February 23 (Aquarius) — Partnerships, domestic and other relationships are a delicate courtesy. Take him in order. It will pay dividends. Separate future from fact; step ahead carefully.

February 24 to March 23 (Pisces) — Present duties quietly attended, future matters considered, everything kept ship-shape may sound like a big order, and probably will be. But the best part of it is, YOU CAN DO IT.

YOU BORN TODAY: You're the sign of friendship, justice, sociability. Often you have the ability to guide others. Life is a lot of fun, but you may do things exclusively. Your bearing is noble, like your mind and heart, when finally do you realize your fine gifts. Next few months, activity speeds up, group and partnership interests increase. Be your usual philosophical, spiritual. Birthdate of: Virgil, Roman poet.

Colonels Kale, Eddy Set For Major Army Parley

COL. Lester W. Kale and Col. Dayton W. Eddy of the Tobyhanna Army Depot will join the commanders of more than 50 other major U.S. Army installations in Washington Oct. 15, 16 and 17, for the First Annual Commanders Conference on Army Supply, Maintenance and Transportation. Host at the "family gathering" will be Lt. Gen. August Schomburg, Commander of the newly activated U.S. Army Supply and Maintenance Command.

"During this meeting," said General Schomburg, "we will discuss how we will meet our responsibilities with regard to supply, maintenance, and transportation. Ours is the most critical, the most important of all the work that provides our soldiers what they need where and when they need it."

What we accomplish during this conference," he continued, "will help develop the efficiency of our future operations, improve our responsiveness to user demands, eliminate unnecessary management overhead, and help the Army get more quickly to the heart of its problems in meeting the world-wide needs of our military forces."

The Honorable Paul Ignatius, Assistant Secretary of the Army for Installations and Logistics, and Lt. General Frank Besson, Commanding General, U.S. Army Materiel Command, will address the conferees on the opening day of the meeting. Conference sessions, which will be held in the Ambassador Hotel, will include presentations by key members of General Schomburg's staff on the mission, responsibilities and objectives of the U.S. Army Supply and Maintenance Command.

The U.S. Army Supply and Maintenance Command, largest of the seven subordinate commands of the U.S. Army Materiel Command, was activated on August 1, 1962, in Washington.

One Of The Many Interesting Art Works On Exhibition

Viewing Graphics At Gallery

Helen M. Harrison
HOW DO you like your art? Do you want to look at a picture that tells a story, or portrays a mood? Do you want to see a landscape, and, if so, will you demand that it be real, or will you take interest in one of fantasy? Do you enjoy pure abstract patterns of line, and color?

Are you one who likes to see form indicated in a picture — or are you satisfied with flat decoration, if it is aesthetically interesting? Or — are you like me — do you just like art? — and the better, the better!

Whatever your taste, you will find something to stimulate it in the present show of Graphics at the Pocono Art Center Gallery, 586 Main St., Stroudsburg.

For this is as fine a collection of its kind as can be gathered together. In fact, it is the duplicate of one that is being shown abroad by the United States Information Service in its program to acquaint other lands with the accomplishments of Americans.

There are prints by famous artists, such as Raphael Soyer, Adolf Dehn, Fritz Eichenberg, William A. Smith, using time-honored methods of craftsmanship in wood cuts, lithographs, aquatints and etchings, in blacks and whites, and there are amazing prints exploring newer techniques, rich in color, in all the same media — and in intaglio.

Viewing these pictures, I know that I'm looking at the work of artists skilled in their fields — this is a precise art — even when used freely.

While there are many examples of what is often called "modern" art, that is, abstractions, no one seeing this show would make the remark that is sometimes heard among observers at contemporary exhibitions: "Any child could do as well as that!"

DV To Join Eastburg In In-Service

RALEPH Burrows and Theodore Miller, principals of the East Stroudsburg Area secondary schools, announce that the Delaware Valley Area secondary teachers will join the local faculty for their In-Service Program on Friday.

The whole program for the day centers around the theme of seeking to meet the needs of the individual student. The program has been designed primarily to inform the classroom teacher of the helps that are available for students with learning problems.

The areas stressed will be the developmental reading program, the service of the guidance center of Monroe and Northampton Counties, and the new family counseling service of the Children's Aid Society.

Dr. Harvey A. Neville, university president, conferred the honorary degree of doctor of humane letters upon Mrs. Bowen and the doctor of laws upon Jack K. Busby, president of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company. He also granted 80 master's and doctor of philosophy degrees.

Degree recipients came from 16 states including Hawaii and from seven foreign lands including Afghanistan, China, Egypt, France, India, Japan and Panama. An additional 532 baccalaureate and 121 advanced degrees were awarded by the university in January and June of 1962.

Fire Destroys Warehouse

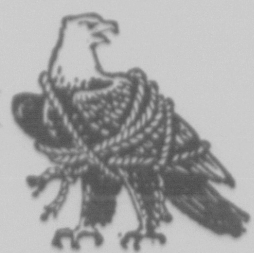

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fire destroyed the rented warehouse of Goodwill Industries in Philadelphia's Germantown section Sunday, causing $105,000 damage to materials inside.

Loss to the building was not known. A spokesman for Goodwill Industries said the 6.45 a.m. four-alarm fire destroyed 35,000 filled bags of clothing, some 50,000 pounds of baled winter clothing, and a half million empty bags scheduled for use in a clothing campaign this winter.

Children in public schools in Philadelphia, Delaware, Montgomery, Bucks and Chester Counties take the bags home to be filled with used clothing. The spokesman said he hoped a new shipment of bags will be available by Oct. 23—when the drive begins.

Goodwill Industries employs about 300 handicapped persons. Materials now on hand in other buildings will keep the workers busy about a month or six weeks.

WILL AMERICA BE TIED UP

IN KNOTS?

The strands that bind a nation and weaken its leadership are more subtle than the picture. In the U.S.A. it could be higher education tied down by shortages. Higher education, let's remember, gives us our leaders and our lead... in science and invention, in business and trade, in living standards.

But the cost of leadership is going up. Many colleges are in a squeeze. They need up-to-date laboratories and facilities, classrooms and, above all, qualified teachers.

Concert Ducat Sale Increases

THE Waring Concert Office at 33 N. 7th Street, Stroudsburg, reports a sharp increase in requests for tickets occurred during the past week.

Mail orders from towns and cities within a radius of 70 miles has increased sharply, and typical of the letters received was one from Robert N. Sheffer of Watsonstown, Pa. who had written "enclosed find my check for two tickets to the Waring Concert. I hope you won't disappoint me because I have attended the Waring Workshop and I am an enthusiast of Mr. Waring's music."

The sale to date of the concert's 1,047 seats indicates a sell-out audience with a possibility that very few seats will be available at the box office on Sunday night, Oct. 21.

Local patrons are requested to purchase their tickets as soon as possible. Tickets are available at the following places: Kresge Drugs, Paul Lloyd Sports Goods, A. B. Wyckoff Dept. Store, Biggs Restaurant, and at Don Heller's.

Cohen Set For B'nai B'rith Meet

MAXWELL Cohen of Stroudsburg, a member of the Eastern Pennsylvania Council, District Grand Lodge No. 3, B'nai B'rith, will attend the one-day meeting of the District's Board of Governors in Wilkes-Barre on Sunday, Oct. 28, it was announced by David Yelen, District Grand Lodge No. 3 president.

Yelen, who will be host to the governors as well as preside at the meeting, said that an estimated 80 members of the Board are expected to attend the one-day gathering.

The Board sets policy and directs B'nai B'rith activities of more than 500 B'nai B'rith units and 50,000 members in the four-state Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Delaware-West Virginia area.

Policy will be established for the coming year, and plans will be made for the 111th year convention next May, according to Mr. Yelen.

Northumberland Youth Is Killed

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP) — Seventeen-year-old Claude G. Mellick, Northumberland, was fatally injured before dawn Sunday when the car he was driving missed a curve on Route 14, south of Northumberland and smashed into a utility pole.

State police at Milton said Mellick was traveling at an excessive rate of speed at the time of the mishap.

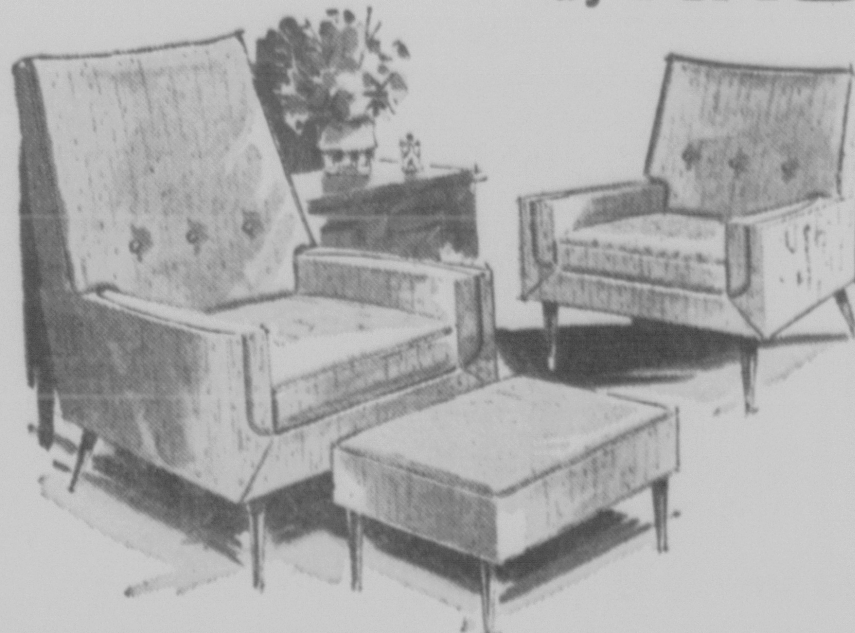

A passenger in the car, Robert Hepner of Philadelphia, suffered lacerations and abrasions. He was taken to Sunbury Community Hospital.

Gregory's 'Butchers' Are Turning Home Field Into A Slaughterhouse

By KEN O'BRIEN

Daily Record Sportswriter
IF THINGS KEEP going the way they have on the East Stroudsburg State College grid-iron, the place will soon be known as The Slaughterhouse.

The sheep this week came from Cheyney State College. And the Butchers of Coach Jack Gregory carved out a 68-6 triumph before some 1,200 blood-thirsty grid fans Saturday afternoon. It was a record score for ESSC.

Last week, the breed of sheep came from Kutztown. With slightly duller knives, the same executioners cut out a 52-7 victory. So, in two consecutive week-ends, The Butchers on college hill have totaled 120 points while get-ting cut slightly themselves for 13 points.

It's too bad that this Thundering Herd of ESSC allowed themselves to be scored upon in two straight contests. Gregory is sup-posed to have such a marvelous defense. This is enough to put the Warriors in third place in the PSCAC Sator system of ratings. Or maybe lower. But the scores in both instances came against reserve units. Toby Barkman, the sparkling 180-pound halfback candidate for Little All-American honors, scored his seventh, eighth and ninth touchdowns in this slaughter — two of them coming from the first play of scrimmage, including a 72-yard gallop for the longest run of the game.

Halfbacks Star

Gary Willhide, the other half-back, tallied a pair of TD's as both he and Barkman scored half of the 10 TD's piled up by Gregory's troops. One of Willhide's touchdowns also came in a first play from scrimmage.

There were five other scorers. Contributing one touchdown each were Dom Villani, Jan Beliveau, Charley Sierier, Tom Washburn and Jerry Wasilechak.

Wasilechak's TD also came on the first play of scrimmage in the third period when he smashed through the middle of the Cheyney line for 29 yards and the score.

Two Scoring Passes

Barkman's second TD from the first play of scrimmage, incidentally, came in the final period when he hauled in a pass from Quarterback Bill Lewis on a 39-yard play. It was Lewis' second TD aerial of the afternoon.

Wasilechak also contributed six extra points on kicks, while the Warriors also scored a safety. The only manner in which the East Stroudsburg combine failed to score was by a field goal — but not because they didn't try. Wasilechak attempted an FG with less than a minute remaining in the game, but it fell way short. Apparently he's near-sighted from kicking so many extra points following an ESSC touchdown.

One humorist in the press box suggested that Wasilechak is getting more kicking practice in these home games than he is during practice workouts during the week.

Cheer Cole

One of the brighter moments occurred in the fourth quarter when husky Horace Cole, normally a guard and referred to as "The Tanker," was installed as quarterback. On the first play, he kept the ball and skirted left end, thundering in slow motion for nine yards.

It was hardly a spectacular sprint, but it drew as loud a cheer from the fans as was heard all day.

The victory for the Warriors marked the fourth straight without a setback this season — and the third in a row in PSCAC competition.

Dom Villani got the ball rolling right off the bat in the opening period when he capped a 46-yard drive in three plays.

Willhide Intercepts

Gary Willhide intercepted a Cheyney pass (their first play of the game) and returned to the visitors 46. Beliveau cut off tackle for eight yards, Barkman took a hand-off for four more and then Villani exploded through the right side of the line for 28 yards and the TD for a 6-0 lead. The kick attempt failed.

Next time the Warriors got their hands on the ball, they drove 54 yards in five plays with Beliveau plunging over from the one. Wasilechak's conversion was good for a 13-0 lead.

Barkman scored his first of the three TD's later in the same quarter on a 30-yard sprint which climaxed a 58-yard march in five plays. East Stroudsburg thus held a 20-0 advantage as the first period ended.

Score At Will

ESSC kept scoring at will — and every time they got their paws on the ball as they racked up 29 more points in the second stanza.

It was a Cheyney fumble which set up the next score as the Warriors recovered on the Cheyney 3. Willhide carried on the first play for the tally.

A poor Cheyney punt which sailed only a few yards to their own 18 while deep in their own territory set up the next score. Charley Sierier, one of four ESSC quarterbacks in the game, plunged over from the one on the sixth play as the score mounted to 40-0.

Colts Down Cleveland; Unitas Shines

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baltimore scored 23 points Sunday before Cleveland registered a first down and the Colts coasted to a 36-14 triumph over the puncheon Browns before a crowd of 80,132 fans.

Johnny Unitas, Colt quarterback who is not enjoying one of his better years, was on target this time as he completed 18 of 31 attempts for 225 yards and three touchdowns.

The Cleveland club, known for its rushing game, was held to 20 yards on the ground. Fullback Jim Brown, National Football League rushing leader the last five years, wound up with a net of 11 yards for 14 carries.

The Colts scored the first four times they had the ball on touch-down drives of 75 yards, 52 and 99 and a field goal by Wendell Harris, rookie from Louisiana State.

Unitas hit R.C. Owens with a 24-yard pass for the first score and Tom Matte with an 18-yarder for the second. Matte tossed a 4 yards to Dick Bielecki for the third.

The Browns' first gesture came after all that scoring and Harris' 17-yard field goal.

Meeting Today
BASKETBALL officials of the PIAA will meet at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg, this afternoon at 5:45 p.m. to attend an interpretation meeting at Slatington, according to Ray Davies, president of the Stroudsburg chapter.

The Warriors scored in the opening stanza, when Quarterback Glenn Ray threw a 12-yarder to Joe Salvatore in the end zone. Wilbur Smith, ESSC halfback, kicked the PAT and the college hill eleven led 7-0.

The Redmen of Cornell, however, came charging right back to take the lead when halfback Billy Smith, raced 10 yards into the end zone for the score. Smith ran for the PAT and Cornell led 8-7.

The Warriors were not to be denied, and again via the arm of Ray, who cashed in on the decisive touchdown of the game, when Dave Appier, took a pass at the Cornell 10-yard line and scampered untouched into the end zone. Versatile Willie Smith, ran for the PAT, thus making the score 15-8 in favor of the local eleven.

Cornell late in the second quarter, tried gamely to pull the game out of the fire, when after a touch-down, Smith attempted to run for the extra point and margin of victory, but the strong interior line of the Warriors, stopped his thrust and the Stroudsburg JV's won their first of the year 15-14. The Warriors record is now 1-1-1, having tied Susquehanna and lost to Stevens Tech School.

Pupils Still Pray In School

NEW YORK (AP)—Among the estimated 100,000 men, women and children in the Columbus Day parade reviewed Friday by President Kennedy were six youngsters who received heavy applause as they marched along Fifth Avenue.

The children, pupils in Roman Catholic elementary schools, carried a sign which said: "We still pray in school every day."

An official prayer approved by the New York State Board of Regents for public schools recently was found by the U.S. Supreme Court to be in violation of constitutional guarantees of separation of church and state.

'Complicated' Marriage

RAGUSA, Sicily (AP) — She fired eight shots at him and hit him only once. Three months later, she married him in the Ragusa Prison where she is serving a sentence for attempted homicide.

Wed Friday were Nunziata Ventura, 16, and Emanuele Starquandine, 19.

The bride's father was present to give her away. Gaetano Ventura is serving a sentence in the same jail for encouraging his daughter to take vengeance when her fiancé kept putting off the wedding.

Over-The-Counter Ford

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. A friend of mine claims that Ford Motor Co. stock was traded in the over-the-counter market before that stock was listed on the New York Stock Exchange. I say that it might have been possible to get a quotation on the price of Ford stock in the over-the-counter market but that no transactions took place until the stock was listed on the exchange.

Who wins the argument?

A. Your friend by virtue of the fact that Ford stock was traded very actively in the over-the-counter market for some one and a half months before it was listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Here's the historic rundown. Before Jan. 18, 1956, you couldn't buy Ford stock. It was "closely-held," primarily by the Ford family and the Ford Foundation.

The investing public got its first opportunity to buy Ford stock on Jan. 18, 1956, when the Ford Foundation sold 10.2 million shares of Ford Motor common stock, at $64.50 a share.

That, as you remember, was one of the biggest financial news stories of all time. The offering of the stock was handled by a nationwide group of investment banking and brokerage firms.

The stock was first listed on the New York Stock Exchange on March 7, 1956. Between those two dates, the stock was traded very actively in the over-the-counter market.

Since that time, the Ford Foundation has sold nine million additional common shares of Ford Motor stock (in four separate offerings) and other shares have been issued as a result of mergers, etc. And, of course, the stock has been split two for one. There are now more than 46 million shares of the common stock outstanding—owned by the investing public.

Another indication of the widespread ownership is the fact that Ford Motor common stock is traded on the New York, Boston, Detroit, Midwest, Pacific Coast, Philadelphia-Baltimore - Washington, Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges—and the Paris Bourse.

Q. Can you tell me what "long" signifies in the language of finance? A friend of mine said he is "long 100 Peg common at $2 1/4." What is he talking about?

A. "Long" signifies ownership. Your friend means that he owns 100 shares of Public Service Electric & Gas common stock, which he bought at $2 1/4 a share. "Peg" is the nickname of "PEG" is the New York Stock Exchange ticker symbol for that stock.

Assuming that your friend isn't just bragging, congratulate him.

It's a fine stock and, as I pound out this column, is quoted some 12 points higher than your friend paid for it.

Q. I will be graduated from high school this year. I would like to become a registered representative with a brokerage firm. Must I go to college in order to obtain my goal?

A. "Must" is a strong word. It might not be an absolute thing. But it would be most helpful. A college education has become almost vital, if you want to land and hold a really good job—especially in the world of Wall Street.

Many big brokerage firms have training programs for "registered reps." Most of them won't consider you for such a program unless you are a college graduate or at least studying for your degree.

Jayne Wants Quick Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jayne Mansfield wants a quick Mexican divorce from Mickey Hargitay but he won't consent.

The bosomy blonde actress says she wants the Mexican divorce so she will be free to wed Italian producer Enrico Bomba.

Hargitay and Jayne are separated and have signed a property agreement.

Hargitay at first agreed to Jayne's request for a quick divorce, then "decided that I have more of a responsibility than that to Jayne," he said. "I don't believe she knows what she is doing. I love this country. If she wants to get a divorce in California, that's all right. There would be a year's wait."
